Haunted Eiffel Tower

Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective

Halo Paranormal Investigations

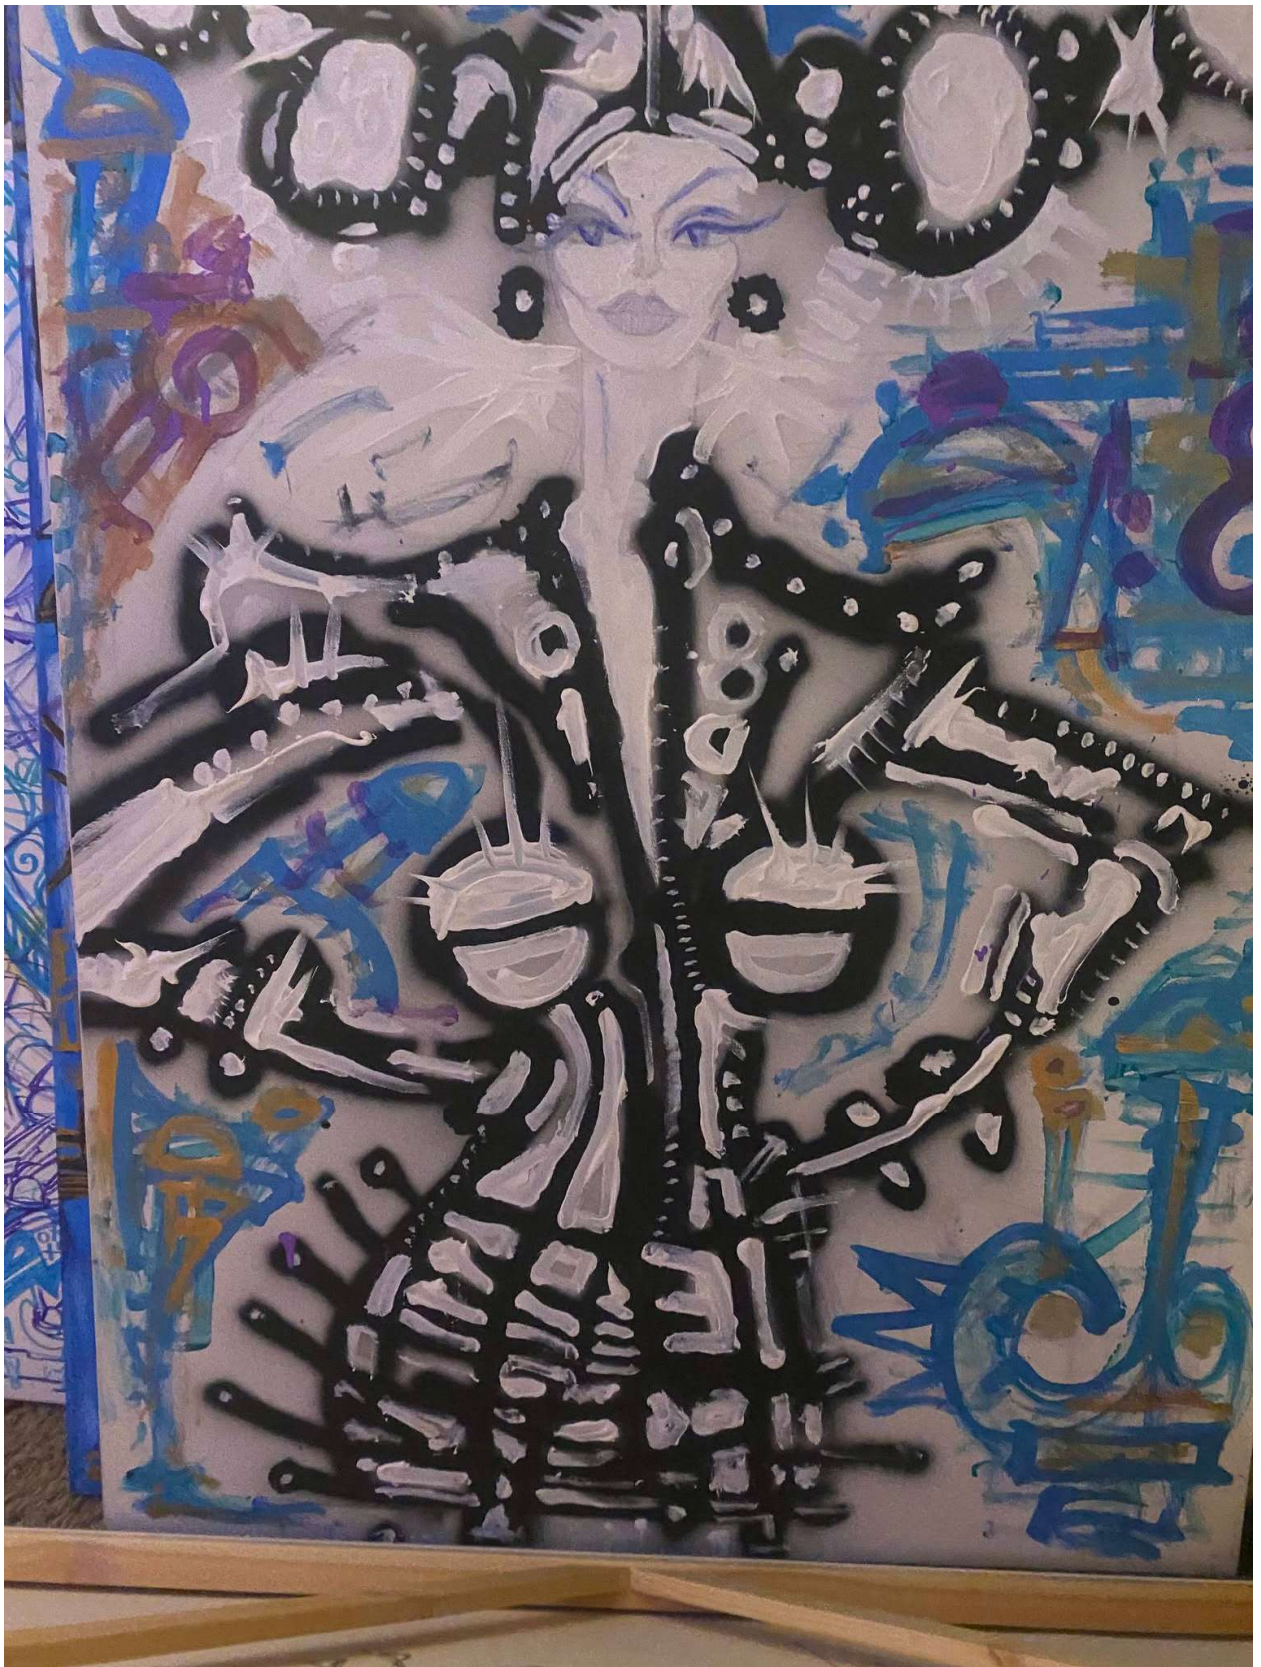

In 1974, I went to Paris. I was in the Army at the time and went to Paris on a military discount. $29.00 bus trip to Paris and return bus trip back to Nurnberg, Germany. We spent 5 days in Paris. When I saw the Eiffel Tower, I was in total awe of its majestic beauty. I didn't think about the Eiffel Tower being haunted. Not until later, I started wondering if the Eiffel Tower is haunted. Many of the places in Paris that I visited were haunted, like Notre Dame, the Paris Catacombs, Palace of Versailles, Arc de Triomphe, Napoleon Bonaparte's tomb at Hotel Les Invalides.

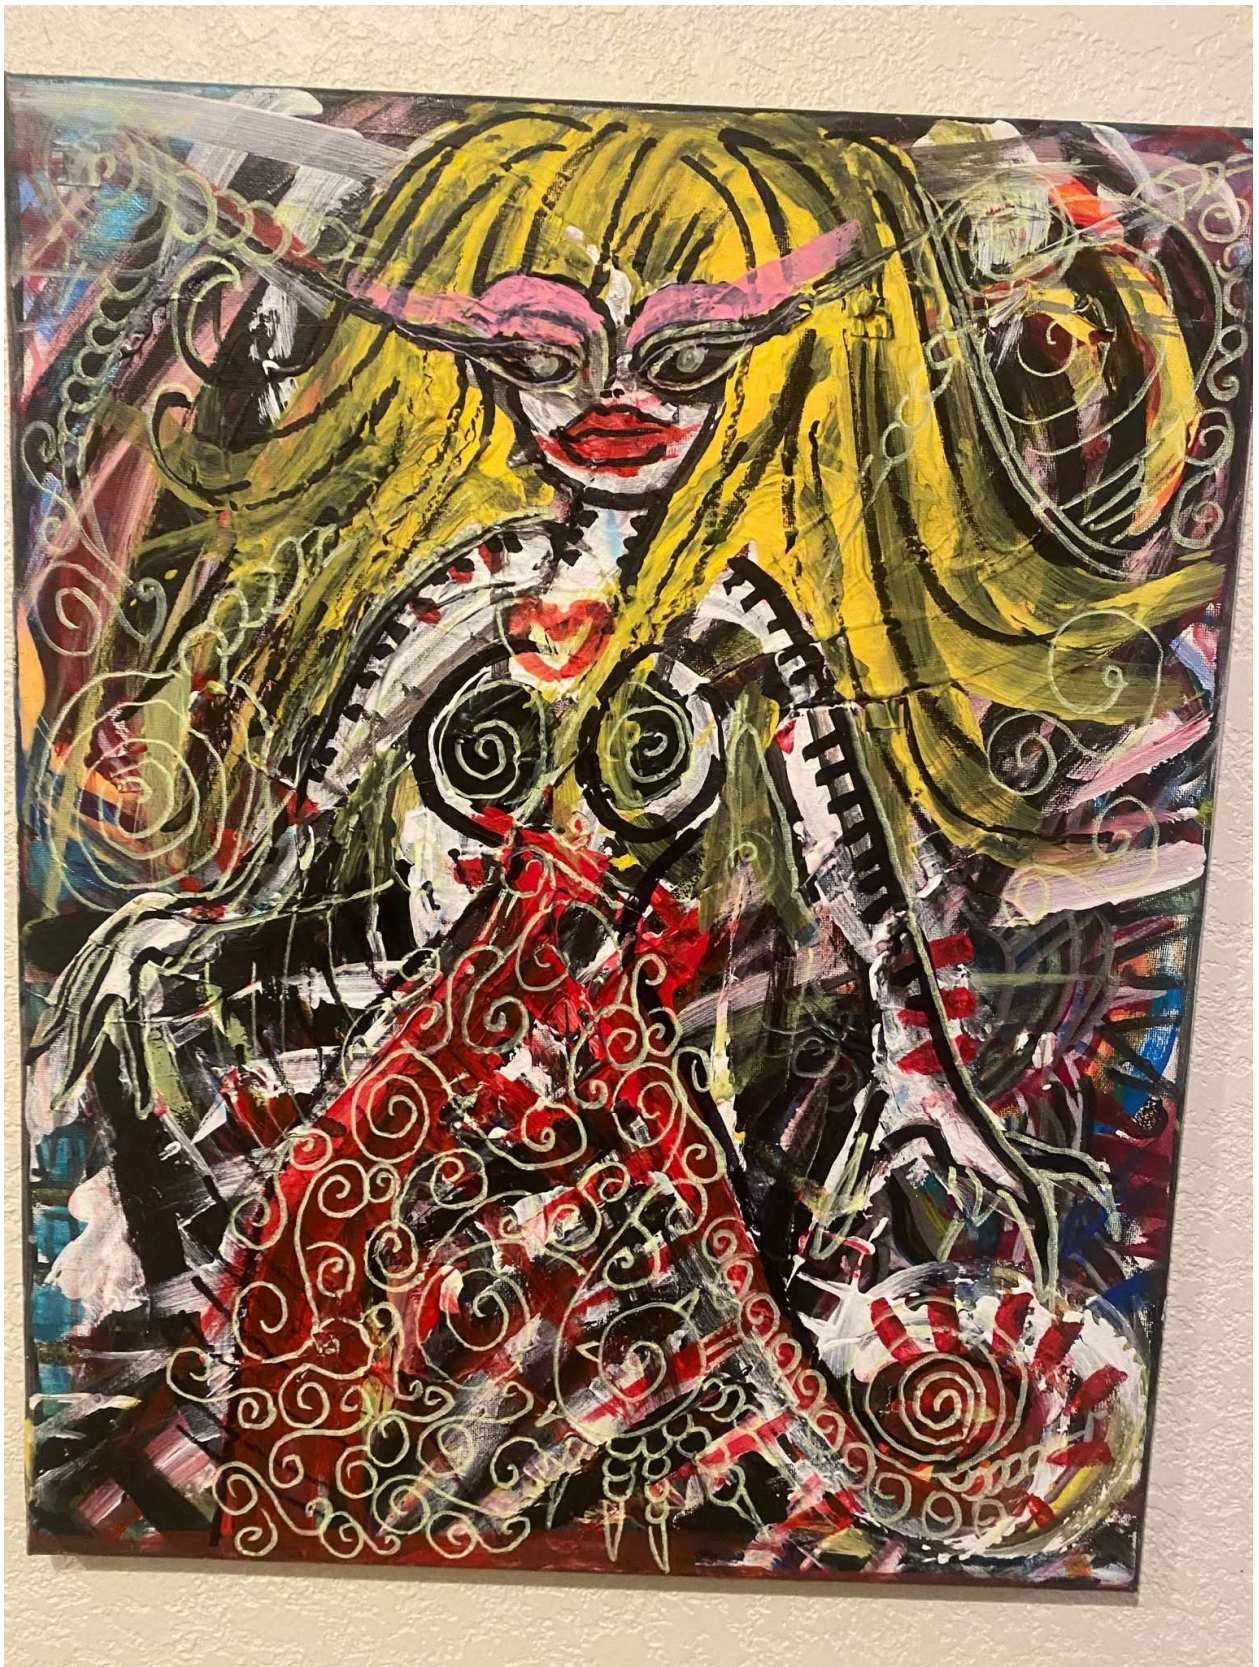

I learned later in life that the Eiffel Tower is very haunted. There have been 6 deaths at the Eiffel Tower. According to the official records the six deaths was a worker who was struck by a truck, the second death was of a man that fell down an elevator shaft, a third death was a man hit by a hoist, a fourth death was in a blast area and a fifth death was a man who fell off a scaffold. The sixth death was a man that thought he could fly. His name was Franz Reichelt. He died on February 4, 1912. Franz had this great idea, that he could build a parachute suit and jump off the Eiffel Tower and survive. When he wore the suit, he acquired the nickname of the Flying Tailor. On the day that he fell to his death, he told the authorities he was going to do dummy drops. At the last-minute Franz changed his mind, put on the suit and said he was going to jump from the Eiffel Tower. He got to the jumping point, hesitated for 40 seconds and jumped. The parachute suit opened half- way and wrapped around him. He hit the ground with a resounding THUMP. His right leg and arm were crushed. His skull and spine were shattered. Blood came pouring out of his mouth, ears and nose. Franz was dead. At times tourists claim that they see the Flying Tailor jumping off the Eiffel Tower and will vanish before hitting the ground. The negative energy is so strong, it causes an "incident loop" that replays itself over and over again.

Tourists and Parisians make claim that they see ghostly figures at night walking around the Eiffel Tower. These ghost figures could be coming from the nearby Pere Lachaise Cemetery or the Paris Catacombs that may actually be under the Eiffel Tower. Many people have seen a ghost of a woman walking in the upper areas of the Eiffel Tower and then vanishes. Many people believe that this woman was murdered by her fiancé in the 1920s. The story goes that a couple walked up the Eiffel Tower, the boyfriend proposed. The woman refused the proposal, and the man went into a fit of rage and pushed his girlfriend into the safety railing. He pushed her so hard she went over the railing and fell to her death. The other side of this story is that the woman after receiving the proposal was shocked, stepped back, lost her balance and fell to her death. There is no official record of this woman's death in the 1920s, but people insist that the story is true, and a woman ghost is seen at the higher end of the Eiffel Tower.

Monaco is known as the Principality of Monaco, because it is a sovereign city/state. It is a microstate that is located on the French Riviera bordering the Italian region of Liguria, with France to the north, east and west. Monaco is populated with 38,682 residents, in which 9,486 are Monegasque nationals. Monaco is one of the wealthiest places in the world.

A bit of history of Monaco. The name Monaco comes from the 6th century BC Phocaean Greek colony. The Ligurians referred Monaco as "Monoikos". Legend has it that Hercules came to Monaco and turned away the previous Gods. They built the House of Hercules in Monaco. House of Hercules was taken by the Holy Roman Empire and passed on to the Genoese bloodline. If you visit Monaco now, it's like paradise. Beautiful rich people driving around in their fancy sports cars. red carpets thrown out for the elite. It wasn't always that way. There have been conflicts in the region. The Genoese Forces had conflicts when occupying Monaco. In 1419 the Grimaldi family purchased Monaco and had conflicts with outside sources. In 1793 Revolutionary forces captured Monaco until 1814. In 1943 the Italian Army invaded Monaco and pushed their fascist administration on the people of Monaco. With the conflicts, skirmishes and invasions, there has been blood spilled on this land.

Let's look at some of the haunting activity in Monaco. If you are a rich ghost hunter and have money to spend, Monaco might be a great place to do some ghost hunting. I guess you can blame Princess Grace Kelly for transforming this resort into a luxurious celebrity hang-out. Grace Kelly when she married Prince Rainier of Monaco in 1956 placed this beautiful land on the map. The paparazzi invaded Monaco and millions of pictures were taken of Grace Kelly with her husband Prince Rainier. Before you knew it, the world had their eyes on the lives of Grace and Rainier in Monaco. Everyone in the world knew about the small micro-nation of Monaco. People may know about the rich celebrities that hang-out in Monaco, but do they know about the ghosts of Monaco? Probably not. Let's look at some of the haunting features of Monaco.

The USS Zaca, a yacht that once belonged to Errol Flynn, is said to be haunted and berthed in Monaco. Some witnesses have reported seeing Flynn's ghost pacing the ship, while others have heard voices and laughter as if there were a wild party on board. I believe there is a lot of strong positive energy surrounding this boat, which causes a residual effect in which people can hear ghostly laughter. Along the shoreline, Monegasque nationals claim that they have seen mermaids along the shoreline. Some mermaids are said to be hideous in appearance, while some mermaids look like beautiful females with the tail of a fish. A mermaid sang a soft song and a local walked up to the mermaid. The mermaid grabbed the local's arm and tried to pull him into the Mediterranean Sea. The local said the mermaid was rough with him and had incredible strength. The local believed that the mermaid was trying to drown him.

At the Grand Theater you have the Grand Theatre Opera Singer (ghost). This ghost is of a woman singing her highest pitched notes in the opera house. You can hear her singing, but as a ghost, you can't see her. If you want to hear more singing, the ghost of Princess Grace can be heard singing in the nearby gardens and also at the Cathedral where she was married at. If you are brave enough, you can check in at the Hotel de Paris and encounter the ghost known as Crazy Heloise. Crazy Heloise is heard laughing hysterically. When Crazy Heloise was alive in Monaco, she was elderly, perhaps in her 70s. She went gambling at the Casino de Monte-Carlo. She won a large amount of money and when she got to her room, she went crazy with laughter, counting her winnings out loud. To this present day, you can still hear her laughing hysterically and counting her winnings. One guest of the hotel encountered Crazy Heloise and he said that she walked through a door and into the hallway carrying all kinds of money. She looked at the guest with a crazed look on her face. The story goes, that she died of a heart attack, that was initiated by her hysterical laughter. She died in her hotel room.

The Public Force aka La Force Publique is the police force for Monaco and two of their officers responded to a disturbance in front of the hotel. When they got there, it was the ghost of a 1943 Italian Army Officer beating a local with a stick over and over again. The officers shined a light on the subject. The subject looked at the officers and vanished in front of their eyes. Also vanishing was the victim that was being beaten with a stick. Also, at this casino is the ghost of the Red Lady. She is described as being in her 40s wearing a long elegant scarlet dress. She is very attractive and will flirt with men, by pouting her lips. When the guy goes to touch her, she will just fade away into nothingness. As an added note, this casino was the inspiration for Ian Fleming's Casino Royale.

Special Note: My step-mother Cindy Anderson has been to Monaco. Some information was provided by my step-mother.

Haunted Jamestown & Rail Town 1897 State Historic Park

Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective

I have a big connection to Jamestown, CA. My wife Deanna Jaxine Stinson aka Wish Fire used to live in Jamestown. Wish Fire's parents still live in Jamestown. Our group HPI (Halo Paranormal Investigations) conducted a very large scouting mission to Jamestown. I brought over 30 scouts. Scouts are "paranormal investigators in training". You are probably wondering exactly where Jamestown is. Jamestown is located just inside the Tuolumne County Line. Jamestown is still revered as the "Gateway to the Mother Lode." Jamestown is the place where gold was first discovered in the county. Today, Jamestown remains a charming, historic and very well-preserved town. Jamestown has a lot of history, some of that history is very dark. Joaquin Murrieta and the Murrieta Marauders killed many miners in the Jamestown / Sonora area. Ghostly miners have been seen walking along trails. Some of my scouts claim they encountered some of those ghosts. Locals tell us that Jamestown was first founded in 1848, following the discovery of a 75-pound nugget of gold by Benjamin Wood in a creek south of town. The creek is named after Benjamin Wood, and his discovery was considered part of the historic California Gold Rush that began at John Sutter's Mill near Sacramento. A ghost that has hidden his gold when he was alive, now haunts the trails near Rail Town 1897 State Historic Park. The ghost is known as Snake McGavin. Loren M, a psychic medium says that as he was walking along a trail, in front of him was a snake. Loren stepped back and a cowboy looking guy with a grin on his face was holding the snake that was in front of him. The ghost known as Snake McGavin grinned and vanished with the snake. Loren immediately did an EVP session and a Ouija Board session on the trail and asked for the name of the ghost. He received a voice recording on his recorder that said "Snake McGavin" and another recording that said: "watch your step".

During our scouting mission, we learn that many mining camps were comprised of both Anglo and Mexican miners, Jamestown was predominantly an Anglo community, while miners from Mexico moved up Woods Creek a few miles and established their own city, Sonora. Sonora was a hangout of the outlaw that inspired Zorro. That outlaw is no other than Joaquin Murrieta. Joaquin was not the only outlaw in this area. You also had Colonel James, and a thief named Corrigan, that were law breakers in Jamestown. Jamestown was named after Colonel James. With all of the wicked deeds that were happening because of greed, you had killings such as where two men were found naked, with their throats cut, near what was called the "Chinese diggings." Two Mexican men were shot in the middle of downtown Jamestown. Three others were attacked and fatally injured on the road to Sonora as two others were found dead with their pockets rifled. A man who lived alone in a tent near town was found bludgeoned with a hatchet. Murder was happening everywhere in Jamestown, Sonora, the area that is now Rail Town and Woods Creek. I might want to mention there were some more murders and crimes committed. You had three Mexican bandits stabbed and killed for robbing two traders at their tent. A witness named McMennis shot one of the robbers through the head as the other two made off with $300. Several robberies took place at Jamestown within just a few days. And when a white man grabbed the wife of a local Native American leader, he and two of his friends were shot to death.

Present Day: You have hauntings at the Historic National Hotel that was founded in 1859. A ghost named Flo haunts the upstairs and in the rooms that face the outdoors. She is seen floating from room-to-room. She is known to turn the lights on and off. She will at times slam doors and if she is frustrated, she will take your luggage, open it and dump your clothes on the floor. Outside of this hotel, my scouts took pictures of 3 blue orbs that were floating around. Lou Statler, a scout with Halo Paranormal Investigations says that he saw a light far down the railroad tracks that was flickering and moving sideways back and forth. When Lou approached the light, the light flickered off. When Lou came back to the train station, he saw the light again. Wish Fire saw a ghostly woman at the 1897 State Historic Park that was wearing a yellow bonnet. A scout named Brian Lisbon says he also saw the ghostly woman wearing a yellow bonnet. Brian conducted an EVP session in which he says: "Yellow Bonnet, if you are listening, give me a sign that you are here." Yellow Bonnet made good, by placing her ghostly fingers in his hair and stroking his long hair. Two of the scouts saw Brian's hair move by itself.

Haunted Sigiriya: The Lion Rock

Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective

jazmaonline.boards.net/

Sigiriya is an ancient rock fortress located in the northern Matale District. The Matale District is near the town of Dambulla in the Central Province of Sri Lanka. The majestic beauty of this mountain, that goes straight up into the sky is breath taking to look at. It's a massive column of granite and it stands at the height of 590 feet. According to the ancient Sri Lankan chronicle called the Cūḷavaṃsa, this area was a large forest, then after storms and many landslides it became a hill and was selected by King Kashyapa (AD 477–495) for his new capital. The King built his palace on top of this rock and decorated its sides with colorful frescoes. On a small plateau about halfway up the side of this rock he built a gateway in the form of an enormous lion. The name of this place is derived from this structure, which is called Sigiriya: the Lion Rock. There had been a lot of deaths at the royal palace, and there have been a lot of death in and around Sigiriya. Locals have seen ghostly Buddhist monks walking around the palace grounds. The reason is because the capital and the royal palace were abandoned after the king's death. It was later used as a Buddhist monastery until the 14th century. Locals have heard unearthly chanting coming from the Lion Rock.

Sigiriya is filled with history. Some of that history is dark. It is believed that Sigiriya was inhabited since prehistoric times. There is clear evidence that the many rock shelters and caves in the vicinity were occupied by Buddhist monks and ascetics from as early as the 3rd century BC. To this day ghostly monks are seen walking around. The earliest evidence of human habitation at Sigiriya is the Aligala rock shelter to the east of Sigiriya rock, indicating that the area was occupied around 3000 BC during the Mesolithic Period. Strange shadow figures are seen walking into caves or walking out of caves. According to my uncle Jose Causing – Merchant Marine, he heard about a wall that emits sounds like a man screaming, a man coughing, a man moaning. Some of my uncle's shipmates that visited the Lion Rock have heard these screams, coughing and moaning. The sounds are believed to be King Dhatusena. Prince Kashyapa who is the son of King Dhatusena murdered his father by walling him up alive. King Dhatusena bound by his hands and feet, walled up alive, must have gone through extreme agony and torment. Tied up, unable to move and starving. What a horrible death. Murdered by his own son.

Moggallana who has royal blood felt that the Lion Rock should fall under his ownership. Moggallana fled to India to escape being assassinated by Kashyapa, but vowed revenge. In India he raised an army with the intention of returning and retaking the throne of Sri Lanka, which he considered to be rightfully his. Expecting the inevitable return of Moggallana, Kashyapa is said to have built his palace on the summit of Sigiriya as a fortress as well as a pleasure palace. Moggallana finally arrived, declared war, and defeated Kashyapa in 495 AD. During the battle Kashyapa's armies abandoned him and he committed suicide by falling on his sword. Locals have seen phantom soldiers, sword fighting around the land of The Lion Rock. Prince Kashyapa spirit is also seen walking around slowly, with his head looking down towards the ground in shame.

Residual energy can be found all over the world. Residual energy is non-intelligent. Residual energy is like a recording tape, it replays an incident over-and-over again. The incident can be positive, or it could be negative. I am going to give you two examples of strong negative energy that replays itself over-and-over again. The negative energy that is the strongest, usually involves some kind of death. A murder, an accident, etc. Information received from my brother Andy Somprise Soyo, he told me that certain areas of the Alaskan pipeline are haunted. The reason why those certain areas are haunted is due to the fact of horrible accidents that occurred on the pipeline. 32 people died during the construction of the Trans-Alaska Pipeline System (TAPS), including Alaskan employees, contractors, and subcontractors. My brother Andy worked on the Alaskan pipeline from 1975 to 1976. The pipeline was built between April 1974 and June 1977, and more than 70,000 people worked on it. The construction cost was approximately $8 billion, and the largest camp was at the Valdez Marine Terminal with 3,480 beds. Andy was being assigned to work on a certain section of pipe and was surprised that many of the workers at the camp were telling Andy that the section he is being assigned to is very haunted. The workers told Andy that a worker named Luis was assigned to that part of the pipeline. Luis was working on an elevated platform, lost his balance and fell to his death. Luis was screaming: "Noooooooooooooooooooo!" When Andy was assigned that section, on the 3rd day, there was loud crackling sounds that Andy and his team of workers heard. Then a nerve shattering scream was heard and the word "no" being said in the extended form. One worker said that he actually saw Luis on an elevated platform and then fall off. The platform slowly faded away, taking with it the spirit of Luis. When Andy confronted his Field Director, the Field Director laughed and said that the section of pipeline that Andy was assigned to, was not haunted and it's the imagination of the workers. When the Field Director finished his sentence, his coffee cup moved across his desk on its own. The Field Director seeing this, became scared and apologized for saying that the pipeline section was not haunted. The Field Director also did a prayer to Luis, asking Luis to go towards the light and to leave his workers alone.

The movement of the coffee cup, I believe is residual, because when Luis fell off the platform to his death, the Field Director at the time did exactly that, pushed his coffee cup off his desk and ran outside to the side of Luis laying out in the field. Andy worked on this section of pipeline for 3 days and on all 3 days, he heard crackling noises and one of the days, he heard a man yell...."nooooooooooooo". Andy's co-worker saw a coffee cup slide across the desk on its own. Yes, I believe the events of that fateful day are being played out over and over again.

Another case of residual energy playing out repeatedly is when I had my team (HPI - Halo Paranormal Investigations) go out to 5 roadside memorials aka Descansos. They are easy to spot out, they usually have crosses, flowers, wreaths, signs, photos of the victims at the memorial, which is placed on the side of the road. We did EVP sessions at each Descanso site. We also took pictures. In one of the photos taken by an investigator-in-training, showed mist by the memorial. Carl Wong conducted an EVP session at one of the Descanso(s) and you can hear 2 women screaming and the sound of a car crashing into a tree. Come to find out there was a late-night crash, in which a vehicle smashed into a tree. Two women were in the car and the driver survived and the passenger died. The residual effects of that car crash live on forever and will replay itself over-and-over again.

Good Servant Orphanage: Shadow of the Bat

Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective

Halo Paranormal Investigations

PHOTOS EXPLAINED:

Group Photo of HPI Paranormal Investigators at haunted home located on the former property of the Good Servant Orphanage.

Photo comparison of the land that once was the Good Servant Orphanage

1/8/2025: A family in Vallejo contacted me on the paranormal hotline. They are being terrorized by a large bat. They recently moved to Vallejo from Portland, Oregon. The home that they moved to is near the former property of The Good Servant Orphanage. They moved into their new home 3 weeks ago. Some of the things that are happening at their house are constant knockings on the patio window door. A large shadow of what appears to be a bat goes across the living room into the kitchen. Bed covers get pulled off their 2 children. One night, the 2 children were found on the floor asleep. Their children claim that a large bat placed them on the floor. The lady of the house, that I will call Mary made some lasagna on one night. The lasagna was cooked in an aluminum bakeware pan. Mary set the pan down and after an hour, the pan was at a normal temperature and Mary was able to move it from the oven top to the table with her bare hands. When the family sat at the table, Mary went to grab the pan with lasagna and the pan was once again oven hot! Mary burned her hand. Mary screamed in pain and once again the shadow of a large bat went across the living room and into the kitchen and vanished. Mary says there is no way that the pan could get oven hot like that again, after it was out for an hour and cooled off. Mary believes a demon did that. Looking on Google Earth, I realized that the house that Mary's family moved into was near the former property of the Good Servant Orphanage. HPI (Halo Paranormal Investigations) has investigated many homes near the former property of the Good Servant Orphanage. I will be going to Mary's home next week to bless her home. This case is still pending. Below, is a case that HPI did of a home built over the property of the Good Servant Orphanage.

Special Note: Mary says that similar paranormal activity as shown in this video, happens at her home: www.facebook.com/reel/1742066756646130

BLAST FROM THE PAST:

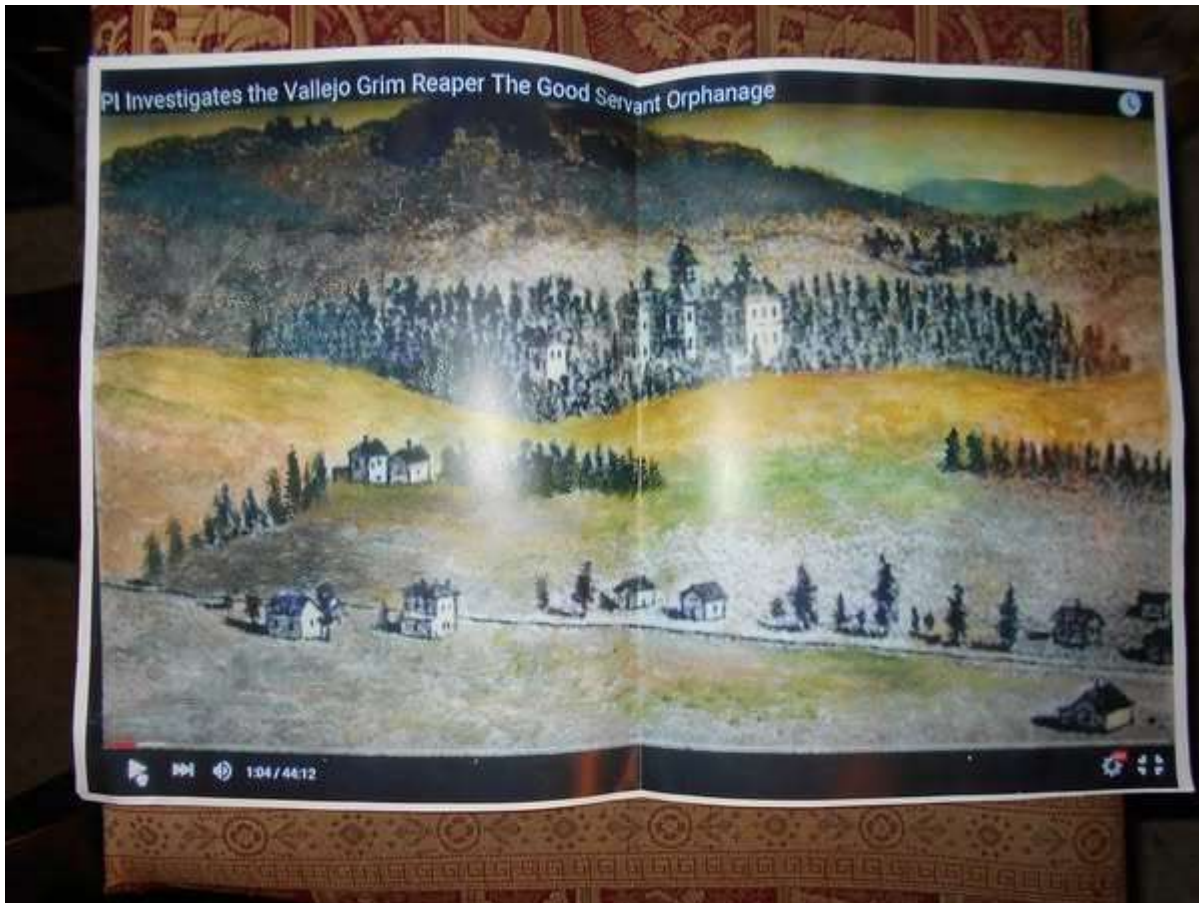

We have an investigation July 13, 2013, Saturday Time: 8:00pm

Home built over institution – The Good Servant Orphanage aka The Good SERPENT Orphanage – where they tortured mentally disabled children. Some of the tortures included lobotomy, injecting air into the children's spine, slapping, hitting, waterboarding, needles under fingernails, plucking eyes out, skinning a child alive, taking out vital organs with no anesthesia, sleep deprivation, child sexual molestation, various shock treatment on the temple area and at times vital organs. It was reported that many children were 'missing', that they simply ran away from the establishment. I investigated MANY homes in this area! Here is another one! Address to be at: Vallejo, CA

High poltergeist type of activity, things flying off shelves!

Grim reaper apparition seen! A previous occupant went mad and shot himself in the backyard. The Good Servant Orphanage is LEGEND. Contact Person: Jay Jay

What amazes me is the fact that this institution was torn down because of the atrocities that took place inside to little children. Then with disregard for the dead, real estate developers decided to build homes on the property that once held The Good Servant Orphanage. It became unfortunate for new homeowners that moved into their home, to later find out that their home is haunted. The same thing happened here in Sacramento, in the Pocket area. Real estate developers decided to build homes on top of a Portuguese cemetery. I have received so many calls of hauntings in the Pocket area and in Vallejo.

HPI ROLL CALL

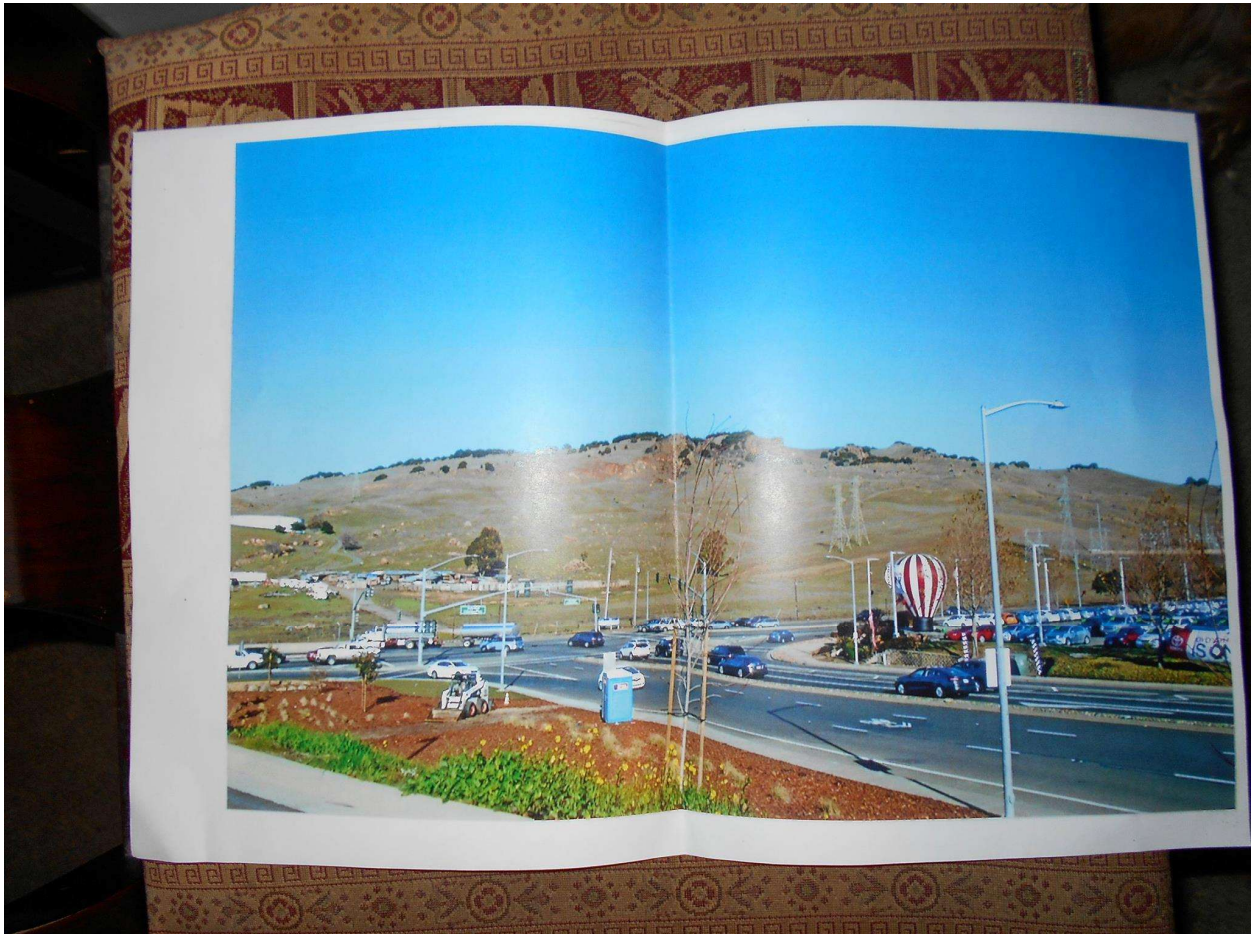

HPI Paranormal Investigators (Roll Call): Paul Dale Roberts, HPI Owner & Lead Investigator; Jon Rubsam; Tuesday Rubsam; Alaceo 'Big Al' Rosatano – Back-Up Videographer; Capone Bender – Sketch Artist; Ivy Rubsam; Marissa Selby; Stamatoula 'Toula' Horiates; Rebecca Lorenzana; Arianna Mejia; Jennifer White; Nicole Cornelius; Carolann Castro; Teri Villarreal; Dawn Perron; Deanna Bailey; Larry Baty; Donna Anderson; Shari Aresta; Kara Koyasako; Jon Koyasako – Security; Lisa Gottschalk – Technician; Wendy Maxam – Videographer; Louise Cordova – Buddha Cleanser.

Riding with me in the Rusty Anomaly (my vehicle) were Marissa and Stamatoula. I was greeted by an army of HPI investigators. Since the home is large, it will take an army to fully investigate this home.

We have 3 areas to cover. The backyard – outside perimeters, 1st floor and 2nd floor.

FIRST INVESTIGATIVE EVIDENCE BRIEFING:

Many orbs are captured in our photos. Orbs are inconclusive. Special Note: Orbs can be anything from dust, skin flakes, light refractions, etc. If you can prove that the orb has "intelligent movement", then you can deem the orb as paranormal. The psychics are picking up on possible negative energy from previous owners. The psychics also feel there may be some energy attachment to the furniture. Investigators captured Class B EVPs of breath sounds, weird squeaking sounds and a possible child moaning. Rebecca captured a child humming EVP sound, garbled sounding EVP. Big Al captured a Class A EVP that says 'oh yeah'. Some investigators with their own ears heard a moaning sound and someone saying 'yeah'. Rebecca may have captured a full body apparition standing by the basement doorway.

SECOND INVESTIGATIVE EVIDENCE BRIEFING:

The possible full body apparition needs to be fully analyzed. Rebecca captured a white outline of what looks like a man. Jay Jay the occupant says she actually recognizes the figure. The EVPs, some are questionable, but the Class A EVP that Big Al captured while everyone was outside is undeniable. Big Al and his small team also captured some other EVPs and they need to be analyzed. EVPs can still be residual. I did not see any evidence of paranormal activity from The Good Servant Orphanage, but I do see evidence of past negative energy. This is from my standpoint, I believe this home is haunted by residual energy. Of course I could be wrong. We will have to wait and see when everything is fully analyzed. I forgot to mention, that there were some K2 hits, sensor lights came on - inconclusive. Wendy Maxam researched out some information and learned that the Bohemian Grove and the Knights Templar endorsed The Good Servant Orphanage. Members of the Bohemian Grove came to the opening ceremony of The Good Servant Orphanage. They referred it as 'Hope on the Hill'. It is known that the Bohemian Grove participants sacrifice a plastic baby doll at the Owl effigy (present day) and it is rumored in the past that they would actually do human sacrifices. Just a thought..could the children from The Good Servant Orphanage be the human sacrifices that once took place? I mean, they are orphans, who would miss them? Also, why does the Vallejo city government hide the fact of the existence of the The Good Servant Orphanage? Why do they say that it never existed, but yet we find evidence that it did exist? So many mysteries exist, and will the riddle ever be unraveled? Only time will tell.

1/10/2025 / 10:05 a.m. Pacific Time. Paranormal Hotline call came in from Rocky River, Ohio. Rocky River is a city in western Cuyahoga County, Ohio, United States. Rocky River is a suburb of Cleveland. Rocky River is located along the shore of Lake Erie approximately 9 miles west of downtown Cleveland. The city is named for the Rocky River that forms on its eastern border. The caller on my paranormal hotline is Emilia. Emilia was born in Romania and lived there for 7 years. Emilia came to America with her parents. They settled in Cleveland and later moved into the suburbs known as Rocky River. At the age of 17, Emilia met another Romanian family in Cleveland and started dating their 20-year-old son named Dorin. Emilia tells me that their relationship was romantic and quite normal. Emilia had dreams of marrying Dorin. Unfortunately, Dorin had other plans. He cheated on Emilia and broke it off with Emilia. Emilia didn't take the break-up easy. Emilia would confront Dorin and have horrible arguments with Dorin. Emilia even slapped Dorin's face. One day Dorin had enough and cursed Emilia. Emilia on the third day after being cursed was tormented by a Moroi. A Moroi is a Romanian vampire ghost. This type of vampire is basically an energy vampire, and Emilia was soon to find out how dangerous a Moroi is. The Moroi which is a male ghost would grab Emilia by the throat and suck out her energy. The next day Emilia would feel drained and was unable to go to school or work the night shift at a popular restaurant in Cleveland.

Emilia was invited by two of her girlfriends to celebrate one of the girl's birthday at the Flats. During this celebration, the three of them indulged on a nice boat ride on Lake Erie. They had a nice lunch and when the sun went down, they enjoyed a live band at a nightclub. This has turned into a fantastic day for Emilia's birthday celebrating friend. As the night progressed, Emilia had a strange feeling come over her. She went into the restroom and realized that she was possessed by the Moroi and hungered for energy. Emilia was in a crowded nightclub and discovered that if she touched people in the crowd, skin-on-skin, she would absorb the energy from the people in the crowd that she touched. One woman she held onto for a couple of minutes, passed out on the floor. Emilia was able to drain her completely of her energy. Emilia when arriving at home, felt completely energized. Emilia felt strong and powerful. Emilia was frightened knowing that a Moroi has possessed her body and soul. Emilia tells me she feels like she is now a living Moroaica (female energy vampire) and she now constantly hungers for energy. She feels that if this is not controlled, she may take too much energy from her victim and that victim will die. She asks me for help. In this situation, since she feels she is possessed, I recommended that she should receive a full submersion baptism (a basic form of exorcism) to get rid of the entity that is attached to her. Emilia says she will do this and keep me informed on how she is doing. Emilia also told me that she is fascinated with the paranormal and has been visiting haunted locations in Cleveland. Emilia says it's her guilty pleasure. I told Emilia to take it easy with visiting haunted locations after she receives her baptism. She is in a vulnerable state of mind and a dark force can once again take control. After a baptism, it is best to gravitate towards positive energy and not negative energy. Wait a few months before tackling haunted locations. Below are three haunted locations that Emilia has visited.

FRANKLIN CASTLE:

Emilia says that she did not go inside this mansion, because it's now a private residence. Emilia conducted an exterior investigation. Emilia was armed with a spirit box and says that the spirit box communicated these words: "Hell is inside!" This mansion was built in 1881 by Hannes Tiedemann, this home was named after the street it occupies in Ohio City. The family that lived in this mansion died horrible deaths. Four of their children were killed, along with Hannes' mother and wife. Suspicion of foul play was placed on the shoulders of Hannes Tiedemann. The accusations were unfounded. The castle has since gone through many different owners, and with each one, have come new accounts of strange ghostly activity, stories of secret rooms, and attempts to contact the dead still haunt the property. Previous owners have heard disembodied talking and whispering. Disembodied footsteps are heard. Ghostly hands touching the hands of the living. Things have gone missing and then reappear. A female former owner was bitten on the shoulder and scratched down her leg.

SQUIRE'S CASTLE:

With Squire's Castle, Emilia did an outside investigation. She captured some green orbs floating near the walls of this castle. The castle is located in the North Chagrin area of the Metroparks. Special Note: Metro Parks refers to the Columbus and Franklin County Metropolitan Park District. Mr. Squire built this mansion as a summer home for himself and his family, where they could eventually live off the land and he could enjoy hunting at his leisure. Legend has it that Mr. Squire's wife ventured down into the trophy room with her red lantern, saw something terrifying, fell and broke her neck. She did not die in this castle, and it is said that she died on the way to the hospital. People have seen her ghostly spirit walking around on the grounds of the castle. There have also been reports that you can spot a red light coming from the windows of the castle at night. Shadow figures are seen moving about inside the castle.

DRURY MANSION:

Built in 1912 by industrialist Francis Drury, this sprawling mansion has over 50 rooms. It also has maze-like hallways, and a secret tunnel that runs under Euclid Avenue to the Drury Theater. This tunnel is very haunted with ghostly spirits roaming about. People who have visited the tunnel have been touched and pushed. This mansion in the past has served as a boarding house, and then a halfway house in 1972. Inmates reported the feeling of being watched, hearing footsteps, doors closing, and window blinds sliding up and down on their own. An employee reported seeing a ghost of a mysterious woman with a top knot, who has been spotted in the main staircase as well as the kitchen. Emilia captured an EVP of a woman giggling.

HOUSE OF WILLS

Special Note: When I was stationed at Fort Knox, Kentucky, I visited the House of Wills - 2491 E. 55th Street, Cleveland with my friend Jim Summerson. This building is very haunted. It was an old funeral home. Ghostly figures peer out the windows. J. Walter Wills Sr. started the "The House of Wills" around 1905, becoming a namesake in the business. The spooky vibes increase when its other use in 1912 served as a hospital. Reported deaths occurred there during this time, along with a recent 2006 incident, in which a man was shot and bled to death near the doorstep. People have seen shadow people around the House of Wills. They have also seen a swirling vortex in which shadow people walk into the vortex and walk out of the vortex.

High Strangeness at Daly City Chinese Cemetery

The year was 1972. The location was Oceana High School in Pacifica, CA. There was a group of high school kids that I went to school with, known as the Thick Fog Grave Robbers. They had a reputation of burglarizing homes in San Bruno, San Mateo, Daly City and Pacifica. They were also known for robbing graves. I learned that this group was ransacking graves at the Daly City Chinese Cemetery. They would commit their crimes in the cemetery when it was night and usually when the fog rolled in. They targeted Chinese graves, because it was known that the families of the deceased would throw in jewelry and money into the graves. Things got so bad at the cemetery an article was written about the grave robbing in the San Francisco Examiner. I knew who the robbers were, but kept my mouth shut, because snitches get stitches. I didn't want to wind up as a casualty of this grave robbing group of boys. Their grave robbing got them in trouble with restless spirits. They mentioned that on one of their escapades at the cemetery, they saw blue orbs flying about, going from grave to grave. They could see the blue orbs with their eyes. When the robbers got back home, they all experienced negative outcomes. There were 3 robbers. The first one got into a very bad fight in school, in which he landed in the hospital. The 2nd robber got pneumonia and had to go to emergency, because he had a hard time breathing. The 3rd one almost overdosed on heroin. He later was caught with stolen goods and spent a few days in jail. The 2nd robber returned the stolen items that he had to the cemetery and reburied the stolen merchandise. Things went back to normal for this robber, while the other two robbers had misfortune after misfortune.

When I was a newspaper boy for the San Francisco Chronicle and San Francisco Examiner, our boss Rick Pereira would drive us around all over the bay area to sell subscriptions. Rick and a few other bay area people that I have met, told me a story about the Daly City Chinese Cemetery. A story that Rick and many others believe is true. I first heard the story from Rick. Rick told me that in 1962 a couple parked their car in a secluded part of the Chinese cemetery, so they could make out. The girl in the car, saw a flashing blue light. She thought it could be the police and told her boyfriend what she saw. Her boyfriend went to investigate, and he was gone for a while. Then she saw her boyfriend running to the car and he was yelling..."we need to get out of here!" He claimed that he witnessed a UFO landing on the cemetery grounds. When he pulled out of the cemetery, a hairy ape-like creature was on top of the gate and jumped on his car. He claimed it was like a baby monkey or even a baby Bigfoot.

Other stories about this cemetery are that an elderly Asian woman (ghost) is seen hysterically sobbing by a grave. She is kneeled down crying and has a slight hunch back. If you approach her to ask her if she is okay, she will look at you with a stern look and then vanish. Visitors to this cemetery have experienced seeing shadow people darting around by the graves. A gnarly looking female hand has been seen reaching out from the grave. Disembodied whispers that sound like full conversations have been heard in the cemetery. Some visitors have experienced anxiety while walking around the cemetery. Some visitors have even felt hot flashes and felt they were going to pass out. When they leave the cemetery, everything goes back to normal. When I investigated this cemetery, two of my investigators saw a white mist move from one grave site to another grave site. One of my investigators captured an EVP of a man talking Mandarin. One of our Chinese investigators claim that the EVP words that were recorded said: "you don't belong here." The Daly City Cemetery is one of the most haunted cemeteries in California.

Paul Dale Roberts' Doppelganger

Wikipedia's Definition of a Doppelganger:

A doppelgänger^[a] (/ˈdɒpəlɡɛnər, -ɡæŋ/ DOP-əl-gheng-ər, -gang), sometimes spelled doppelgaenger or doppelganger, is a ghostly double of a living person, especially one that haunts its own fleshly counterpart. In fiction and mythology, a doppelgänger is often portrayed as a ghostly or paranormal phenomenon and usually seen as a harbinger of bad luck. Other traditions and stories equate a doppelgänger with an evil twin. In modern times, the term twin stranger is occasionally used.

On July 17, 2014, HPI (Halo Paranormal Investigations) was scheduled to investigate a private home that was haunted by a demonic force. I conducted a Roman Catholic house blessing and gave the occupant a full submersion baptism (a basic form of exorcism), because she felt she had an attachment. When I got home, my wife (Deanna Jaxine Stinson) detected that something evil was attached to me. Deanna took a picture and captured a doppelganger next to me in the kitchen. I looked at the picture and was shocked. There was no one in the kitchen, except for me, but in this photo, we have a person that looks exactly like me. The doppelganger is even wearing the same shirt as me. Deanna is a psychic medium and felt that this twin was evil. We started seeing a whole lot of black widows crawling around our walls. The air in the house became chilly and it was Summertime. I asked Deanna to give me a full submersion baptism, in which she did. I then conducted a Roman Catholic house blessing and Deanna conducted a metaphysical house cleansing. After the cleansing and baptism, things went back to normal and the doppelganger was gone.

Comments: As a paranormal investigator since 2004 and curious about the paranormal since I was a child, this book fits right good in my hand. There are so many things this book covers that I experienced first-hand as a paranormal investigator. Going down a list of things that you will find in this book, that I have a connection to are: 1. Shapeshifters. I did my own investigation at Skinwalker Ranch. While there, I heard a screeching noise that I was unfamiliar with. Could it have been a Skinwalker? 2. John Wayne Gacy's Ghost. I have received reports that the ghost of Richard (the Night Stalker) Ramirez haunts some of his victim murder sites. I didn't realize another serial killer like John Wayne Gacy is walking around as a ghost. 3. Black-Eyed Children. I actually investigated a home in Sacramento that had Black-Eyed Kids knocking on the door. 4. Poltergeist Movie Curse. I investigated a case in which a couple purchased a doll from e-bay that belonged to Heather O'Rourke and all kinds of terrible things was happening to this couple. The story was featured on Case Closed with A.J. Benza. Yes, the curse continues. 5. Salem Witch Trials. Yes, I went to Salem and did my own investigation, with results! 6. Bigfoot. I did some Bigfoot hunting at Mount Shasta, plus I worked for the California Department of Fish and Wildlife and saw some reports on Bigfoot! 7. Cecil Hotel. I actually stayed at the Cecil Hotel when I was working with the Governor's Office of Emergency Services during the Northridge Earthquake!

DARK SPIRITS

Monsters, Demons
and Devils

A book like this for me, a seasoned paranormal investigator brings back memories. But, for the paranormal enthusiast and novice, this is a book that will enlighten you in many aspects of the paranormal. Richard takes you down the dark forbidden hallways of the unknown. As I go through this book, I was intrigued with the story of "Pigeon" Goldie Osgood who was raped and murdered in one of the Cecil Hotel rooms. Richard explains how a male guest stayed in the room where Goldie was murdered and almost got choked to death by an evil entity that dwells in that room. As I continue on with this mesmerizing book, I learn about the haunting activities at the Waring House. This is a story that I am unfamiliar with. I was fascinated about the mischievous little boy ghost that plays tricks on staffers and guests. Richard's colleague Catlyn may have experienced some of those tricks when she used the restroom and possibly the boy spirit was holding the restroom door handle, not allowing Catlyn to get out. Catlyn first blamed it on her teammates, only to learn that the team had nothing to do with it. It appears she got pranked by a ghost. I bet that boy ghost had a good laugh. If you want to learn more about the Waverly Hills Sanatorium, it's in this book! This is a good reference book that is filled with information on the Bermuda Triangle; the Exorcist Boy: Ronald Hunkeler; Countess Elizabeth Bathory who bathed in virgin's blood; Dracula and so much more. I enjoyed reading about a lesser-known vampire named Theodore "Todor" Glava, possibly born in Transylvania. The townspeople really believed Glava was a vampire, and they dug up his grave and stuck a stake through his heart. His legend continues to this day. Is there a Superman curse? Christopher Reeve was paralyzed in a horse-riding accident, George Reeves committed suicide. It would appear that misfortune happens to actors that portray Superman. Let's hope it's not true. I never get tired of the Amityville Horror and yes, there is a nice write-up on this bizarre case. You want monsters? You have the Abominable Snowman, the Lambton Worm, Slide-Rock Bolter, Loch Ness Monster, Wendigo and much, much more! I got a smorgasbord of supernatural stories in this book, including The Abduction of Betty and Barney Hill, the Goatman and some more creepy stories that will give you goosebumps. I had to keep the lights on while reading this book. Be prepared to shake and shiver!

5 Places That Gives Me the Creeps

Halo Paranormal Investigations

Classiebawn Castle, Ireland

When my family and I, visited Classiebawn Castle, we knew that this place was haunted. We felt cold chills in certain areas of the castle. Jason asked me if I grabbed his shoulder. My answer was no. Jason then said: "Well, somebody did." We learned that when Lord Mountbatten's tragic death came about, it wasn't too long, that you saw the ghost of Lord Mountbatten roaming the halls of Classiebawn Castle. His ship was blown up by the IRA in 1979. Lord Mountbatten is a tormented ghost that haunts the castle. He is seen shaking his head as in disbelief. His face shows shock and surprise. Did Lord Mountbatten grab my son's shoulder? I think it was possible.

Special Note: Visited Classiebawn Castle with my stepson Jason Randall Porter & my ex-wife Patricia Mary Mitchell.

Bled Castle & Bled Lake, Slovenia

At one time the luscious green valley was inhabited by fairies, shepherders and their flocks. The fairies became upset with the shepherders, because their flock was eating and destroying all the lovely green grass and fruit trees. The shepherders were also invading the privacy of the fairies. The fairies flooded the valley killing some of the shepherders. The fairies retreated to Bled Island, where they could celebrate and dance. Some of the fairies have been sighted in Bled Castle and on the island. They will make their presence known when most of the tourists go back home. Legend has it that years ago, a young woman lost her husband who was murdered and thrown in the lake. To commemorate his life, his wife ordered a special bell to hang in the local church. En route to the island, the boat on which the bell was being transported capsized and sank. The bell was lost forever. A second bell was commissioned and blessed by the pope of the time and now hangs in the Church of the Assumption of Mary. Ringing the bell three times and pleading your case “guarantees” your wish will be granted. The young woman's husband will sometimes reveal himself by appearing waist up in the lake.

Special Note: My stepmother Cindy visited Bled Castle. She did not experience anything paranormal.

Belem Tower - Lisbon, Portugal

The tower has dungeons and the prisoners of the past still haunt those dungeons. One tourist heard the sounds of whips and a man screaming. Tourists who visited the dungeons have heard whispers in their ears. Some tourists have complained about being touched by unseen hands. Visitors have reported eerie sensations and unexplained occurrences, adding an element of intrigue to their exploration of the fortress. Another mystery surrounding Belem Tower is the presence of hidden passages and secret rooms. Rumors persist of hidden chambers where treasures from Portugal's colonial expeditions were once concealed. While no concrete evidence has been found to validate these claims, the possibility of stumbling upon a hidden room filled with untold riches continues to captivate the imagination of visitors. Legend has it that beneath the tower lies a secret tunnel that leads to a hidden underground city. This mythical city is believed to house ancient artifacts and relics from the country's past. Though historians have yet to find any concrete proof of the tunnel's existence, the allure of uncovering such a hidden treasure trove adds an element of excitement for people that are visiting Belem Tower. Over the centuries, Belem Tower has also witnessed its fair share of love stories. One such tale revolves around the tragic romance between a young Portuguese soldier and a Moorish princess. Forbidden love, betrayal, and sacrifice are said to have unfolded within the tower's walls, leaving an indelible mark on its history. Visitors can almost feel the bittersweet essence of this love story as they explore the tower's various rooms and alcoves. Some locals make claim that they have seen the Portuguese soldier, and Moorish princess holding hands and walking around on the grounds before they fade away into nothingness.

Special Note: My dad Paul Marceau Roberts & my stepmother Cindy visited Belem Tower.

Here is the link to my story of visiting Spain & Portugal. No, I did not make it to the Belem Tower. Now to that link: www.traveltoparadise.de/en/planes-trains-and-automobiles

Ronda - Province Malaga, Spain

The Province Malaga is a smorgasbord of haunts. We can start off with Cortijo Jurado. Cortijo Jurado is one of the most legendary houses in Malaga. Among all the mysteries that are forthcoming, it can start off with the death of the patriarch of the Heredia family. Disappearances of young girls who were murdered and found not far from the house have shown marks of satanic rites. It is said that the victims were taken through secret tunnels and tortured with machines in cellars located in the farmhouse. Nightly screams have been heard by locals and tourists. The tunnels of Cortijo Jurado exist, and they are very haunted. The government has closed off access to the tunnels with a concrete wall. Legend has it that Tello, a Christian soldier, was imprisoned in Archidona Castle. Tazgona, daughter of the city's ruler, freed Tello from prison. Tazgona's father did not approve of this romantic couple's love, because they belong to opposing sides and religious creeds. Therefore, the young couple decided to run away together. Their escape did not last long. Arab troops were in hot pursuit of this runaway couple. In the face of such persecution, the young lovers climbed to the top of what is known today as the "La Peña de los Enamorados" (The Rock of Lovers) and threw themselves from the top, thus ending both their lives and their love. Locals say on some nights, the apparitions of the couple are seen materializing and running up the Rock of Lovers and throwing themselves off the rock. There are also ghosts at the Ruins of the Rúa house in Ronda. There are many stories about the Serranía de Ronda, some of which are the most popular legends of Malaga. It is a stately home known as Casa Rúa or Villa Apolo. The Casa Rúa has a dramatic history. It was inhabited by a wealthy family with children, under the surname Rúa. The family had hired the services of people to look after the children, suspiciously one day one of the girls disappeared without a trace. On another night one of the nannies in charge of the children disappeared and the parents of the family went to the tower just outside the house to see if she was there, to their surprise they did not find the nanny, but they did find their daughter who was dismembered, drowned in her own blood in a large basin. The parents seeing such a ghastly display screamed in horror. As time went by, the parents hired some detectives to find the culprit. The culprit was never found. To this day, locals and tourists have heard the ghostly screams of the parents. The screams are so horrifying, it will make your blood run cold. The ghost of the girl still haunts the tower of the house in search of her killer and seeking retribution for this heinous evil act.

Special Note: While I was in Madrid, Spain, I heard many stories about Province Malaga. Unfortunately, I never made it over there.

Juneau, Alaska

Red Dog Saloon 278 S. Franklin Street is very haunted. My dad and my stepmother Cindy stopped by the Red Dog Saloon and heard the stories from the bar regulars. A local told my dad that a cowpoke ghost haunts the saloon and will at times pinch the rears of unsuspecting females. A red-haired lady ghost will sometimes manifest in the women's bathroom. Juneau is also the host of other haunted locations. Juneau is also the beginning of the Alaska Triangle where many people disappear. The Alaskan Hotel is considered one of the most haunted hotels in the city. The hotel has been featured on television shows like The Alaska Triangle and Portals to Hell. The haunted rooms of this hotel are Room 315, where a male entity will sometimes appear. He will stare at you for a bit and then vanish. Room 219 is another haunted room. The spirit of Alice, a woman who died in this room, is said to still occupy the hotel. She's known to move objects and steal towels from other rooms. The bar is haunted by 2 ghostly mountain men that will at times knock over your drink. The basement is haunted by the ghost of a man that died in the hot tub. He will be seen with a towel around his waist walking around before disappearing.

Haunting at Curtis Park

David and his Eyeglasses

Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective

Halo Paranormal Investigations

1/25/2025: At 10am this morning while walking my dogs Champagne and Ire, I get a paranormal hotline call. Mary from Curtis Park is on the other line. She tells me that her father David died about 6 months ago and just recently there has been some paranormal activity going on in her home. The paranormal activity is freaking

Mary out. Mary says she believes it's her father that is haunting the home. Mary explains that it's a harmless haunting, but nevertheless she wants it to stop. Mary tells me that her father was an avid reader of books. Some of the books that grace his library are: The Lord of the Rings; 1984; War and Peace; Pride and Prejudice; Don Quixote and a whole lot more. Mary tells me that in remembrance of her father, she has kept a few of his personal items. She has his bible, his books, his eyeglasses, his pocket watch, 3 pairs of his shoes, etc. Some of the haunting activity has to do with her father's eyeglasses. Mary on a couple of nights have found her father's eyeglasses on the seat of his favorite chair. Mary knows that the eyeglasses were placed on the nightstand, but yet somehow, the eyeglasses have found their way to her father's chair. On another night, she found the book "War and Peace" open and sitting on the nightstand with her father's eyeglasses on top of the book.

Mary says that the straw that broke the camel's back is when she saw the eyeglasses with temples open hovering in the hallway at her father's eye level. It was as if he was invisible and wearing the eyeglasses. Mary says...."as soon as I saw that, the eyeglasses fell to the floor". Mary says..."I'm sorry, I love my dad, but that was too much, it scared me to death." Mary asks if I ever saw the movie Invisible Man? I told her I did. Mary says it reminded her of that movie. Mary asks if I ever experienced a haunting like this. My answer to Mary is "yes". When I was in the Army, I visited Oberhofen Castle in Switzerland, which is along the shore of Lake Thun. Tourists and locals report hearing footsteps and seeing shadowy figures in the castle. The castle is said to be haunted by several ghosts, but the one ghost that is famous is Agnes. Agnes was a young woman who died in the castle. Agnes' ghost is said to wander the castle grounds searching for her lost love. She is seen sobbing by the lake and witnesses will see her as a full body apparition holding a handkerchief, then her body will dematerialize, and the witnesses only see a handkerchief floating in the air. Agnes becomes the invisible girl and the only way you know that she is by the lake is seeing the handkerchief floating in the air, which is similar to what Mary's father is doing, but instead of a handkerchief, David is doing this with his eyeglasses.

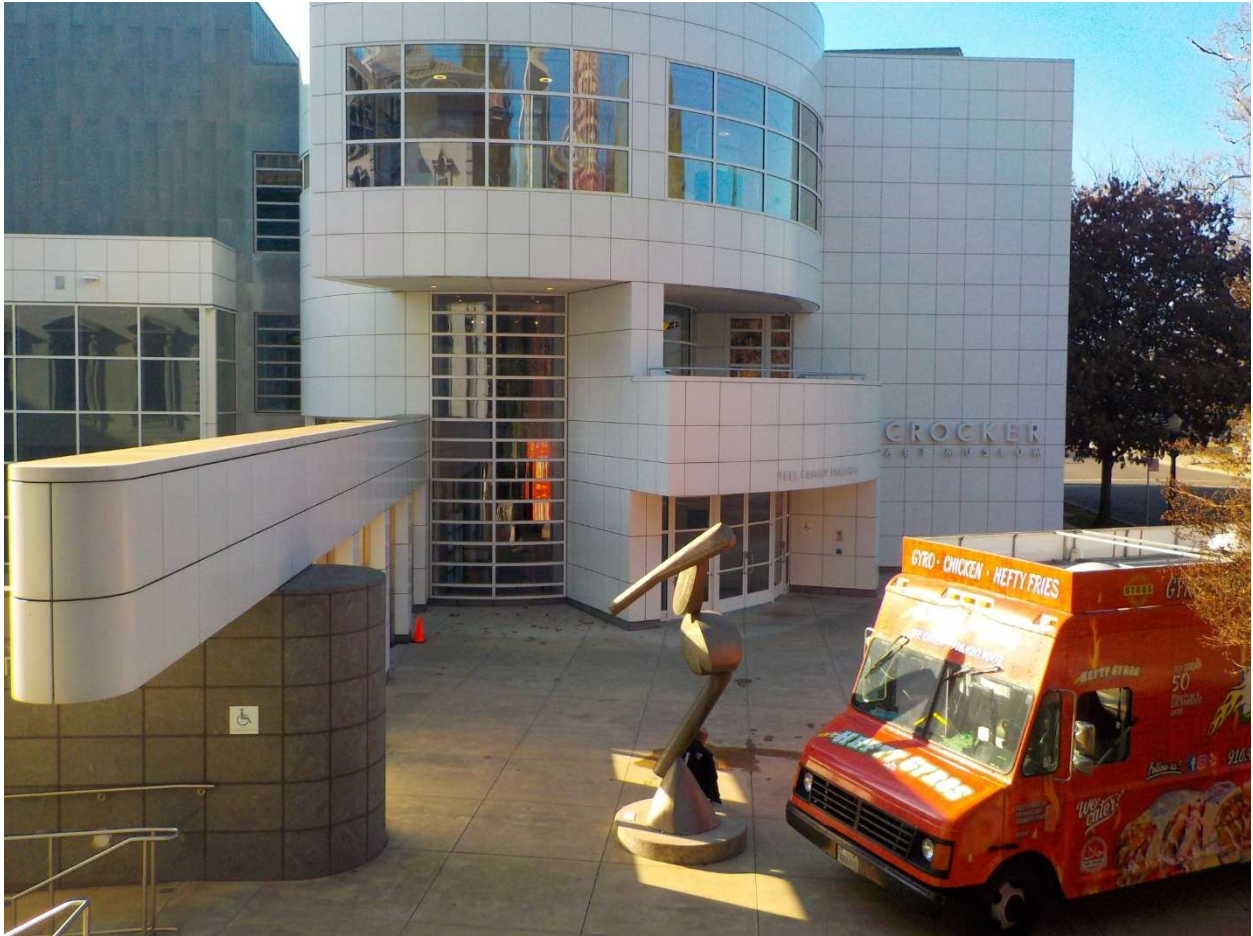

Mary asks if I could come over and conduct a blessing of the house and David's personal items. Mary asks if I could send her father into the light. I agreed. I brought along Wish Fire, our psychic medium. When we arrived, I conducted a small investigation to see if I could gather any evidence of paranormal activity. My EMF detector did go off for a couple of minutes by David's eyeglasses. I also captured a wheezing sound. David was 87 years old when he passed away and had COPD. Mary confirmed that there were times that her father would wheeze. Mary listened to the EVP and felt that it was her father. Wish Fire detected the strong presence of David by his study. This is where I captured the wheezing sounding EVP. Wish Fire conducted a metaphysical cleansing of the home. Wish Fire asks her spirit guide and angels to assist her in pulling this lost soul into a higher dimension (the light). Afterwards, I conducted my Roman Catholic house blessing, asking angels to assist me in sending David into the light. I will keep in touch with Mary to see if Wish Fire and I, were successful in sending David into the light. This case is still PENDING.

Haunted Crocker Art Museum

Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective
Halo Paranormal Investigations

A paranormal group investigated the Crocker Art Museum and makes a claim that it is haunted. Well now, I will have to find out for myself. Let's get some history about this museum. The Crocker Art Museum is the oldest art museum in the Western United States. The museum was founded in 1885. You will find a lot of California art in this museum. The collection includes American works dating from the Gold Rush to the present, European paintings and master drawings, one of the largest international ceramics collections in the U.S., and collections of Asian, African, and Oceanic art. How did it all begin? A wealthy California lawyer and judge by the name of Edwin B. Crocker. (1818 - 1875) and his lovely wife Margaret Crocker (1822–1901), began to collect some very important paintings and drawings during an extended trip to Europe, from 1869 to 1871. Upon their return to Sacramento, they set about creating an art gallery in part of their grand home at the corner of Third and O streets. When the gallery was completed, it was open to the public with proceeds going towards the Sacramento Library. With 694 paintings, the gallery boasted the largest private collection in the country, and held more paintings than the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Notables that have visited the museum are a Hawaiian queen named Lili'uokalani (1878), President Ulysses S. Grant (1879), and Oscar Wilde (1882).

On this investigation, I brought along psychic medium Wish Fire. Wish Fire detected on the 3rd floor an entity of Asian origin. Deanna described the entity as a short possibly Chinese man in traditional Chinese wardrobe. The entity was looking at some of the artistic pieces displayed along the walls. Mills Longer, a resident of San Bernardino has told me that 2 years ago in July, during dusk, he saw an apparition of a woman that looked to be crying at Crocker Park. As he approached her, she simply faded away. I brought along my 2 psychic dogs Champagne and Ire. They usually can detect the presence of a ghost. As we walked around Crocker Park, the dogs were sniffing a lot of things, but did not seem to notice any ghostly activity. I went back into the museum and on the 2nd floor, I captured this EVP. It sounds like a man saying "good form". I will let you be the judge, here is that EVP:

www.youtube.com/watch?v=zK0AzAr8m3c

The ghost hunting group that investigated the Crocker Art Museum claim they captured evidence of both physical and psychological hauntings. They heard strange noises, disembodied footsteps, doors closing where there are no doors, knocking sounds, feeling watched or followed. One of their investigators says that they bumped into someone and there was no one there.

Wish Fire – Psychic Medium aka Deanna Jaxine Stinson

Legend has it that Margaret Crocker, who gifted the museum to the city in 1885, continues to watch over it. Some claim that they have seen her apparition walking down the hallway. The Cowell Gallery, found in the Mansion Wing, is a notorious hotspot for ghostly encounters. At this location, I captured an EVP that sounded like "heavy breathing". I will dismiss this EVP, because that could have been me, after I walked a flight of steps. You know, getting old, I don't go up steps like I used to, but I don't recall breathing heavy...so, this EVP I will not claim as evidence, because it is questionable. Wish Fire also seen an apparition of a woman hovering over the busts of 3 people's heads. The busts were art pieces. If you ask me if the Crocker Art Museum located at 216 O St, Sacramento, CA 95814 is haunted. My answer is "yes". 1. I believe that Wish Fire saw what she saw. 2. The "good form" EVP was clear as day and there was no one around me, when I conducted that EVP session. The Crocker Art Museum warrants a more thorough investigation. Special Note: Michelle Mammini from Facebook says that when she visited the Crocker Art Museum, she got creepy feelings and felt cold spots all over the place. Another Special Note: The receptionist at Crocker Art Museum gave us 2 free entry tickets (Deanna and I) – value of the tickets $15.00 a piece - $30.00 total.

SERIAL KILLER DOROTHEA PUENTE'S F STREET BOARDING HOUSE HAUNTING INVESTIGATION

I get a phone call late Monday night from fellow H.P.I. (Haunted and Paranormal Investigations of Northern California) Paranormal Investigator Jennifer "The Jen-Girl" Baca. Jen: "Paul, I hear rumors that the F Street Boarding House is haunted." Paul: "Hmmm...let's see, since Dorothea Puente resided there and she was a convicted serial killer, that killed nine people and buried seven people at her residence, I can see why people might think it's haunted. It was truly a Nightmare on F Street!" Jen: "Should we scout it out and see if there is anything credible to these peoples' claims?" Paul: "Why not, see you tomorrow night at 18:30 hours, let's check it out!" Today is June 26, 2007, Tuesday and Jennifer is on time. She hops in my Maroon Stratus known as the Ghost Tracker, she looks at me, grins and says, let me play some of my music and throws on "Dont'cha by The cat Dolls".

While Dont'cha is blasting in my car and we're both bopping our heads, people are driving by looking at us like we're weird...then thoughts came to my mind about the murders. Let's take a brief examination of what occurred at this former boarding house.

Doreathea Puente married for her fourth time in 1976 to Pedro Montalvo, who was a physically abusive alcoholic. The marriage only lasted a few months, and Puente started to spend time in local bars looking for older men who were receiving benefits. She forged their signatures to steal their money, but she eventually was caught and charged with 34 counts of treasury fraud.

In 1981 Puente began renting an upstairs apartment at 1426 F Street in downtown Sacramento. The nine murders with which she was charged in 1988, in 1993, she was only convicted of 3 of them. In April 1982, her first victim 61 year old Ruth Monroe who resided in her 16 room boarding house died of an overdose of Codeine and Tylenol. The police judged the death as a suicide by the persuasion and charm of Puente.

A few weeks later, the police were back after a 74-year-old pensioner named Malcolm McKenzie accused Puente of drugging and stealing from him. Hmmmm...things are getting suspicious for Puente. Puente hired a handyman named Ismael Florez and had him dump a suspicious box on the river bank. The box contained a badly decomposed and unidentifiable body of an elderly man inside. Meanwhile, Puente continued to collect her dead tenant's pensions and wrote letters to his family, explaining that the reason he had not contacted them was because he was ill. She also maintained a "room and board" business, taking in 40 new tenants (most of whom were alcoholics and drug addicts). Although she was making a good profit doing this, she wanted more and therefore started to frequent bars looking for new customers.

Every month, Puente collected all the tenants' mail before they saw it and gave them only a small amount of their money, pocketing the rest.

Finally on November 11, 1988, police found a body buried in the lawn of 60-year-old Dorothea Puente. Seven bodies were eventually found. Puente was charged with a total of nine murders, convicted of three, and is now serving two life sentences.

As Jennifer and I arrived at this F Street residence, we immediately sought out EVPs. No EVPs were recorded. We saw a pitbull resting peacefully on the steps. Animals usually have a sixth sense when it comes to the paranormal and this dog is either used to the ghosts of this home or the other explanation came to mind, that there were no ghosts at this home. After spending a considerable amount of time trying to get some EVPs, we finally gave up and headed over to Elk Grove Consumes District Cemetery.

While walking around this cemetery, no EVPs were recorded. Jennifer and I were thinking, this is becoming a non-productive ghost hunt. We snapped all sorts of digital photographs throughout the cemetery and to our surprise, we did get some orbs. But, more surprising is that in one of the shots, there are two HUGE red orbs. When I looked at this digital image, I immediately took two more pictures in the same location to see if I could duplicate the two huge red orbs and only had normal images of darkness. This is the first time, I ever took a picture of orbs that were red and quite large. When I first entered the cemetery I spotted a white figure dashing from one tombstone to another tombstone. I brought this to Jennifer's attention, but she did not see the figure. When I saw the figure, I immediately thought there was someone else in the cemetery, but the only people that were in the cemetery was Jennifer and I. I started questioning myself on what I could have possibly seen. Could it have been a darting white figure or could it have been a reflection of some sort? Or was my mind just playing tricks? I can't really say...I would say that what I saw was inconclusive.

As Jennifer and I headed back, I thought of how urban legends get started. The haunting of this former F Street Boarding house is a mere urban legend. People want to believe its haunted, because of the atrocities that occurred there. Whenever there is a murder that takes place, people automatically think of the deceased victims haunting the area where they were murdered at, similar to a story I once heard that happened on Hwy #1 near the Sanchez Adobe Ranch, close to Big Sur. The story goes that back in the 60s, three hippie kids in a Volkswagen had cut out holes in two areas of the side of their Volkswagen. There was a top hole and a bottom hole to stick out a long metallic pole that held a machete type of blade. In the 60s many people hitchhiked down Hwy #1 and supposingly these kids pushed out the pole/machete on the lower hole when approaching a hitchhiker and cut off his legs and a hitchhiker further down, they pulled out the pole/machete on the top hole and beheaded a hitchhiker. They tried to get another hitchhiker and the pole/machete hit a telephone pole, causing their Volkswagon to swerve off the cliff and into the rocks below. People claim that late at night when you drive down this stretch of Hwy #1, they see the ghosts of a hitchhiker without a head and a hitchhiker without his legs. Of course, this is only an urban legend. I have searched for newspaper reports of this crime and never was able to locate any story of its kind.

Nevertheless, this was a fun investigation and I was happy that I captured on my digital photos the two large red orbs. This is something I have never captured on film before during all of my investigations.

ANOTHER BLAST FROM THE PAST THE SPOOKY ACTIVITIES OF THE DELTA KING OF SACRAMENTO

The Delta King of Sacramento is a fabulous river boat, it stays parked permanently along side the Sacramento River at Old Sacramento. I have eaten at this establishment perhaps 3 times and they serve up everything from Sauteed Quail to Sauteed Veal Sweetbreads to Calamari Rings to their famous Delta King Chop that is mixed with gathered local greens - grilled breast of free range chicken - Point Reyes blue cheese - applewood smoked bacon - avocado - tomatoes - hard boiled farm egg - shallot-blue cheese vinaigrette! I better stop, my mouth is watering...wait a minute, I didn't tell you about the Filet Mignon, Rib Eye Steak, Veal T-Bone, Seared Diver Scallops, Local Rack of Lamb, Du Breton Pork Chop, Kobe Beef Short Ribs and MORE! During beautiful days you can dine outside on the deck and take in the fresh air and look over the beautiful Sacramento River.

The employees that I interviewed on this gorgeous riverboat are Greg Costenson - Beverage Director, Alice Briggs-Ben, Stacey Sorokowsky, Karen Macias - Guest Receptionist. Greg has never seen a ghost, but he has heard all kinds of stories about the ghosts on this boat. While I was interviewing Greg, HPI Paranormal Investigator Debbie Talani was trying to gather some photographic evidence of paranormal activity on the boat. Debbie had an unusual situation happen while taking pictures. She took a picture of one of the employees of the boat and when she looked back at the picture, he was no where in the photo. This was quite odd! On this night, I had a date who does not want to be identified with this story and I sat her down at the bar, while I conducted interviews and Debbie did some lone scouting investigation. There was supposed to be another paranormal investigator-in-training that was going to work with Debbie, but he didn't show up for reasons unbeknown to me. Greg brought over an employee named Alice Briggs-Ben and she tells me that patrons have heard a little girl playing or a man walking. Patrons have seen a little girl going down the hallway, or heard her singing...'ring around the roseys'. In the Suspect's Murder Mystery Theater and the Delta King Theater, there are stories of many entities that hang out in this area of the boat. While I was talking with Alice, I was amazed at all of the energy Greg had, going up and down the steps, moving things. Greg has been working on the Delta King for 2 years now and he is a hard worker, he enjoys his work and I can see why, it would be fun to work on the Delta King, I especially enjoyed the bar area, they had a great rock and roll band playing and the atmosphere was very festive!

I learn that the boat sunk a couple of times and that when the boat was operational, it used to run back and forth to San Francisco and back to Sacramento hauling gas and cargo, sometimes it was loaded with fish. The boat has 80 rooms altogether. Yes, there is a hotel on the boat! This boat has a lot of history, but I wanted to know more about the little girl ghost and the man ghost. It is rumored that the little girl with blonde hair died on the boat during the 20s or 30s and that the man committed suicide on the boat. As I am detailing the ghost stories, I keep getting sidetracked with the elaborate history of the boat. The boat was used one time as a Navy barracks and at another time it was abandoned in Stockton. The Delta King would also be involved in boat races and there is a sister boat called the Delta Queen. Another employee Stacey Sorokowsky tells me that one time at 2am, she went downstairs and she was locking up inventory, when all of a sudden the air in the room chilled with coldness. That was her only paranormal experience, but she was told by the server that he actually saw the little girl ghost. Now Karen Macias has been an employee for 8 years and she has experienced the presence of the little girl ghost 3 times and the man ghost 3 or 4 times. She has seen the man ghost with her peripheral vision, she saw him walk one way and then back another way quickly. She has heard the little girl laughing. One time a patron told her to keep the little girl from playing in the hallway, because he couldn't sleep, he didn't know she was a ghost. After 10pm is when the paranormal activity usually starts according to Karen. Karen tells me that there are more ghosts in the theater. Unfortunately, there was a play going on. Debbie and I, could not investigate this area. Debbie's digital audio recorder would not work for her tonight, so we couldn't pick up any EVPs. Karen shows me a book that Stan Garvey wrote about the boat, called 'King and Queen of the River'. This book details the history of the Delta King. The book was published in 1995. It's a hard book to find. In this book, I learn that the wood was cut in Scotland and assembled & launched to Stockton, where the boat was built. I asked Karen how old does she think the girl ghost is? Karen thinks the girl is anywhere from 7 years old to 9 years old. One employee saw barefoot footprints of the little ghost girl show up on the floor. He freaked out and quit his job instantly. I asked Karen what does the man ghost look like and she describes him as wearing a dark cap, white shirt and dark pants.

One time Karen thought the man ghost was mad at her and he shifted all of her papers on her cabinets to the left hand side of one cabinet.

From all appearances, the Delta King is haunted by two main entities, the little blonde girl ghost and the man ghost. Then of course there are the theater ghosts. These ghosts should have some kind of nickname, because they seem like harmless spirits that want to stay bonded with the boat. So today, this Friday, February 29, 2008, I would like to give these ghosts some monikers, so they can be easily identified. The little blonde girl ghost who is fond of singing 'ring around the rosy' should be called The Ring Around the Rosy Girl Ghost. The man ghost, that possibly could have been a captain can be called Captain Delta. The theater ghosts can be called the Delta King Audience Ghosts!

This was an enjoyable preliminary investigation and I want to thank the employees of the Delta King for their hospitality! I also want to thank The Ring Around the Rosy Girl Ghost, Captain Delta and the Delta

King Audience Ghosts! With ghosts like this, it becomes the stuff of legend!
